

PROFILE

THEMBINKOSI GCOYI: MANAGING DIRECTOR

Thembinkosi is a former South African diplomat with a passion for public policy and stakeholder engagement. He started Frontline Africa Advisory in 2015 to facilitate policy conversations between Government, Business and Communities. In the 6 years of running Frontline Africa Advisory, he has amassed invaluable experience interacting with leaders and critical stakeholders from across different industries.

He has worked with some of the most highly regulated sectors of the economy, including tobacco and alcohol. He brings into his role a deep understanding of the public policy making process, a strong background in research, and a fine ability to understand the interface between politics and policy.

His experience working as a diplomat gave him exposure to international developmental debates, including at the level of the United Nations, African Union and the Southern African Development Community. He is familiar with current debates on climate change, energy just transition, gender mainstreaming, and public health.
